Q & A.....Blair

Dr. Karen J. Blair is a retired professor of American history, who taught at the University of Washington and Central Washington University in Ellensburg for forty years. Her research and publications have specialized in American women's voluntary associations, notably those in the Pacific Northwest. She grew up on Long Island, NY and relocated to Seattle in 1979. She is also an amateur pianist, with a particular love of chamber music. Her 2001 edited collection of essays, Women in Pacific Northwest History, showcases her essay on LMC called "The Seattle Ladies Musical Club: 1890 – 1930." Other works by Dr. Blair include The Torchbearers: Women and their Amateur Arts Organizations and The Clubwoman as Feminist: True Womanhood Redefined 1868 – 1914.
